

Minisymposium 6 - Positive definite functions and applications

Applications of Kernel Methods

BERNHARD SCHÖLKOPF

(MAX PLANCK INSTITUTE FOR BIOLOGICAL CYBERNETICS, TÜBINGEN)

The talk will first discuss positive definite kernels in machine learning and why they are currently rather popular. Time permitting, we will also present some applications, including problems of computer graphics (surface modeling and morphing).